Objet : FW: Inaccessibility complaint about Brussels

Bonjour,

Pour votre information, EDF à reçu une plainte sur l'accessibilité de Bruxelles de la part de un de participants à EDPD.

Comme j'étais en contact avec Mme De Witte pour un autre sujet (e-scooters), j'ai pris la liberté de le transmettre le courriel.

Ci-dessus sa réponse (positif) :

Kind Regards

Dear André,

After verification with the local police it appeared that the panel on the picture is still present at the Rue de la Loi. I just received a call from the police station to assure me a team was on its way to take away the panel today since the latter would have been forgotten there after works taking place in December! Apparently, a warning had already been send by the police station mentioning the unconformity of the panel on plans but it has not been taken into account... We are aware we need to reinforce the control-mechanisms and sanctions.

If Sir David has been injured, please let us know so we can transfer the information and find out which insurance company should intervene.

Greetings,

BARBARA DE WITTE

Dear Barbara, hope everything is going well.

I am not sure if you are the right person, however we just received a complaint that illustrates the problems of accessibility in Brussels.

The complaint is directed to us, as it was sent by an English participant of the European Day of Persons with Disabilities.

I thought it could also help your work in illustrating that inaccessibility may cost important revenue in terms of lost tourism.

Thanks,

Kind Regards

Dear Andre and Catherine,

While we are being ambitious about accessibility, let's not forget the basics.

On our way from the hotel to the EDPD meeting in Brussels last December, David and his guide dog

- Splashed through deep puddles on the pavement
- Stumbled over uneven cobbles
- Tripped over the base of scaffolding
- and was finally knocked out by a badly-placed street sign

Kind regards,
Judith
